OVERTURE

The leader slowly lifts the poised baton
And, as it drops, the first great crash of sound
Shatters the silence, sets quivering the air,
And ebbing dwindles in receding waves,
Until the melodies of low insistent strings
Pierce the shaken stillness with a slender tone,
Climb high, and lead the liquid warble of the flute,
The plaintive woodwinds, and then join
Insurgent brasses, cascading turbulence of drums—
And all the tributaries of slow sound
Converge, and swell the climbing crest,
And flow in one majestic surge of symphony!

Hark! the numbers soft and clear,
Gently steal upon the ear;
Now louder and yet louder rise
And fill with spreading sounds the skies.

[POPE—Ode to St. Cecelia's Day]

AERO-GRAPHIC CORP.
PHOTOGRAPHED BY

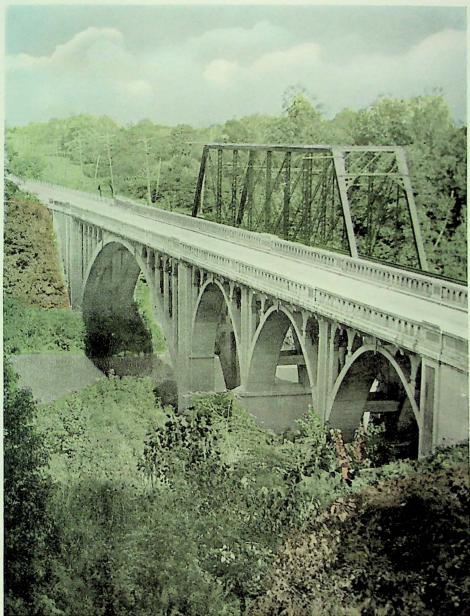

And music too—dear music! that can touch
Beyond all else the soul that loves it much—
Now heard far off, so far as but to seem
Like the faint, exquisite music of a dream.

[MOORE—Lalla Rookh. The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan.]

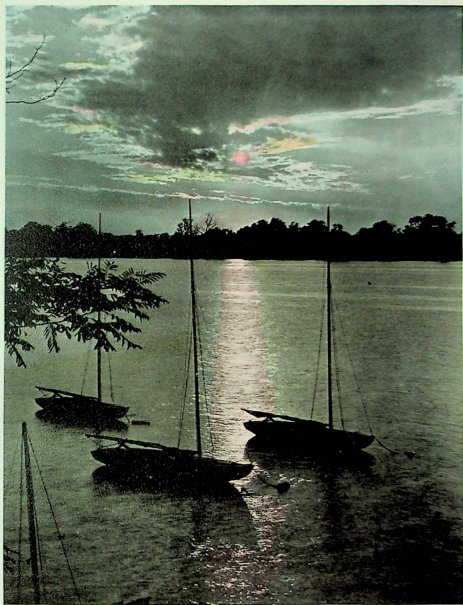

Lingering, and wandering on as loth to die;
Like thoughts whose very sweetness yieldeth proof
That they were born for immortality.

[WORDSWORTH—Ecclesiastical Sonnets. Pt. III. 63.
Inside of King's Chapel, Cambridge.]

How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank;
Here will we sit and let the sounds of music
Creep in our ears: soft stillness, and the night
Becomes the touches of sweet harmony.

(Merchant of Venice, Act V. Sc. I. L. 54)

Gay Marie is quite vivacious
Even if a bit lequacious.

Always calm and quite serene,
Zelda's mien befits a queen.

Though Nellie's answers are not loud nor long,
When tests are given, very few are wrong.

JINGLES

As infectious as can be
Is Margaret Hardin's "tee, hee, hee!"

The Blotter never lacked for verse
Whether good or rather worse
With Atkins, Williamson, and Stein
Occupying 309.

E. Jack Byrd once played the villain
Vowed to kill and do blood spillin';
When not cast in such a part
He's a friendly guy at heart.

Jones—a very common name is theirs
But not so often found in pairs.

The Hammer Twins and Baxter, too,
Form quite a scientific crew
To learn just how the choo-choo-choo
Or wonder why the moo-cows moo.

Vaughn Geddes is quite a ludicrous sight
When he loses his fight to stand upright.

Jack Fougerousse, Filbert to youse,
Is ready with kit and pails,
He's right on the spot when the going gets hot
To aid any player who ails.

Richardson, Read, Harmon, and Daughtery
Snubbed the student group;
Though they had voices loud and hearty,
They didn't give a whoop.

ly won the right to compete in the State finals when he captured the regional title at Seymour. There was no opposition in the local district contest.

The question for discussion was the same one debated by High Schools all over the United States this year—Resolved: "That the Federal Government should adopt a policy of allocating funds to the various states for the purpose of equalizing educational opportunity in elementary and secondary schools."

Under the rules of the League, each contestant delivered two speeches, the first, a discussion of a single phase of the question; the other, a general discussion of the whole topic taking either the negative or affirmative side. Since the topic of the first speech was not assigned until two hours before the contest, it was necessary for entrants to prepare five speeches.

COMMERCIAL CONTEST

After much delay, including a clogged radiator and a few minor details, the Typing and Shorthand teams arrived in Muncie to take part in the State Contest, April 27.

Most of the night was spent discussing the coming ordeal on the morrow, but we arose "fresh as daisies" although the pouring rain somewhat dampened our spirits.

The groans and laments that arose when the test was over convinced Mr. Carmichael that it had all been in vain, but imagine his (and our) surprise when we found that both teams had placed second in their respective events, and that Cecelia Volpert had taken third individual place in Shorthand.

The success of the teams speaks well for Mr. Carmichael, as this is his first year at school.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

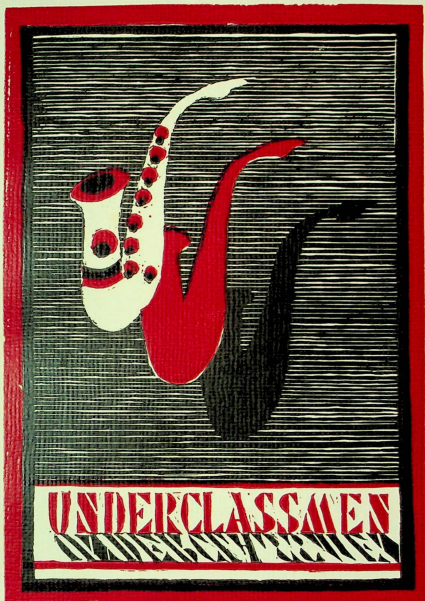

New Albany High School's first attempt to gain honors in the Indiana High School Discussion League was crowned with complete success when Ralph Murphy, representing the Wranglers' Club, won first place in the finals at Indiana University, on April 26, in competition with seven other regional champions. September finds the Art Club busy re-organizing its forces which have been seriously depleted by graduation. Gerald Montague takes over the control of this body of troops. In order to do the holiday spirit, the Art Club brings forth the stained glass window made of cellophane, places it in the alcove auditorium window, and decorates a Christmas tree, and has it lighted for December assemblies. Early in the second semester the club is engaged in making scenery for the Oporetta, and new members are added to its roll. The activities of the club are ended with a social event in the closing days of the school year.

Bel Canto girls are really judges of good music (when they hear it). At least the orchestra that played for their dance in December certainly appealed to their finer sense. This was the first time the club had ever had a party during the fall term, and since "a good time was had by all" it probably won't be the last.

"Palm trees swaying with a gentle motion," native dances, South Sea moonlight, all figured in this year's Operetta. The girls went native in a big way, wearing

The Boys' Glee Club, disguised as brown-skinned natives in varicolored shirts and trim, white-clad sailors, sang lustily in the annual operetta which they helped Bel Canto to present. After basking in the warm tropical sunlight and the smiles of sun-kissed maidens, it was hard for them to remove their makeup and settle down to work practicing on the music for the Good Friday Services held at the school, but, after strenuous effort on the part of Mr. Heckel, this was accomplished.

Instead of its usual balance-the-cup-on-the-knee - hold - a - sick - grin - and - wish - you-had-never-been-born tea, the Jesters gave a dance for their alumnae at the Country Club, January 2nd, 1935. The club members enjoyed it so much that they intend to make it an annual event (until, of course, there are so many alumnae that to "hire a hall" would be impractical).

Eva Markert says she enjoyed wearing a bustle and peering through a lorgnette as the rich aunt in "Her Aunt from California," the Jesters' presentation for this year. The supporting cast was Dorothy Kiefner, Katherine Sherrill, Jane Buchheit, and Virginia Clark.

JOURNALISM

"When Better Blotters Are Published,
the Blotter Staff will Publish Them."

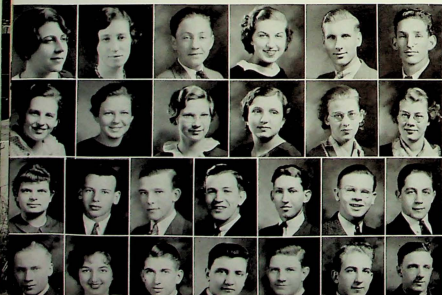

This was the guiding principle of the editorial policy of the Journalism class of '34-'35. The result was a class of finished journalists—do or die news writers, breezy sports scribes, dignified editorialists, and snappy snoopers—students who no longer labored under the impression that the hell-box was where the printer's devil worked.

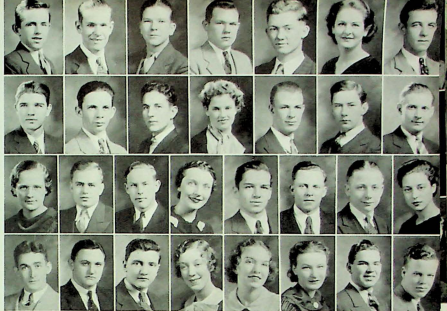

As proof of their ability, they accumulated prizes and honors. In the first Quill and Scroll Contest, Ralph Murphy received 3rd prize for a feature story and honorable mention for his knowledge of current events, and William Prosser's editorial won an honorable mention. In a later contest, Harry Amon won second prize in headline writing and honorable mention in sports write-ups. William Prosser received honorable mention for knowledge of newspaper terms. These contests involved competition in the East Central States.

The veteran journalists and some aspiring novices journeyed to Franklin College

Row after row of sacks filled with beans, apples, potatoes—green Speaker-tags displayed by everyone—frantic searching for unfamiliar streets—mud-covered machines returning for more baskets—all this will remind a Speaker of the day before Thanksgiving, when, with the help of the Wranglers, 153 baskets filled with every kind of food from Yeast Foam Tablets to Mushroom Soup were delivered to the hungry people of the city. But alas! It seemed the Speakers had not yet done their share, for Main Street School students needed still more ham sandwiches in their cafeteria. The club contributed $10.00 to the cause.

staged as very handsome husbands, while Dorothy Park and Zelda Hilt were their equally charming wives. Rosemary Redens was the I-told-you-so "old maid" sister whose Christmas gift was not "just what she wanted".

Two of the Speakers, living up to their name, entered the Wrangler Cup Contest while the others planned their annual Speaker Dinner which was given at the Country Club, May 25.

Immediately following the close of school the girls (not forgetting sunburn and

The Scientific Research Society, S. R. S. to you, has been swinging along right merrily—if a trifle erratically for some time. Although it rather stagnated for a while, the club blossomed forth this year and did some good work.

Many interesting trips were taken, such as the one to the Colgate Soap Factory in Jeffersonville and the Courier-Journal building in Louisville. Besides the trips, the S. R. S. sponsored quite a few lectures, among them was one by Professor Burke on "Shells," and another by Russell Hawkins, an embalmer from Brazil, Indiana, who revealed the intricacies of the art of embalming.

The initiation of the S. R. S. Club is considered one of the most drastic as well as colorful rituals in school. We are not allowed to disclose any of the details but we may admit that eggs play a prominent part.

Because of the failure of Mr. Finley to show up to chaperone their annual hike, the boys had to call it off and eat their lunch in the basement of the Kahler home.

As a fitting climax of the year's activities the Wranglers held the Annual Wrangler Cup Contest in the High School Auditorium on May 23rd. This year's contest marks the third annual contest. Winners, heretofore, were Helen Dye and Rosemary Redens, representatives of the Speakers' Club.

The establishment of awarding Scholarship "N's" in New Albany Senior High School has done much for the recognition of pupils of high mental attainments. It has stimulated those who had ability and because of lack of recognition were indifferent to their high school studies.

While New Albany Senior High School does not belong to the National Scholarship Society of Secondary Schools, all of the pupils who wear the Scholarship "N" would be members of this society, because our qualifications are high enough.

From the group of people, who have won Scholarship "N's", largely come the students, who are awarded scholarships in colleges and universities from our school. From this group, also, have come the individuals, who have established good records at various colleges and universities. The interest of this group has been centered upon high standards of mental attainments, wherever they may be. On the whole—they have not necessarily been bookworms, but pupils who have carried on the major activities in our high school. Among this list are members and officers of the Student Council, members and officers of our annual and bi-weekly paper, athletes of consequence, and officers and active members in club activities. The presentation of Scholarship "N's" was established in 1930.

To gain this award a student must receive straight A's for a semester in four solid subjects or four A's and a B if a fifth subject is taken.

Have you been under the illusion that Taxidermy was simple? Ask the Taxidermists, they have had experience.

The first animal that they tried to stuff was a meadow lark (just something the cat dragged in). But when they were through with it, it looked as if two cats had dragged it in and fought over it.

The business of stuffing animals was forgotten as they strolled on their last hike of the year.

CROCODILE

Swaying palm trees, soft tropical breezes, the silent swish of sacred crocodiles in sun-warmed waters—such was the scene of the annual operetta, "Crocodile Island," presented under the direction of Miss Huntsinger and Mr. Heckel, on February 25th and 26th.

ISLAND

BAND

What loyalty it took for the Band members to arise in the middle of the night (as it seemed to them) and trudge wearily to school to practice their marches! However, they were amply rewarded when the letters were given out.

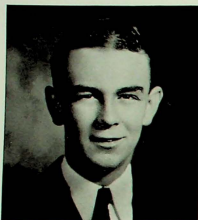

ORCHESTRA

Strains of "Orpheus" and various other concert overtures float through the building each morning as the orchestra rehearses. Music for the class plays, operetta, and Commencement will also be furnished by this organization.

The Student Council in our high school was organized, because there was a felt educational need for it, both from the standpoint for such an expression on the part of the student, as well as from the need of guidance and leadership for the student body from the viewpoint of the student.

It is not student government but a step in that direction. The guidance given a student body by individuals of their own group is democratic and leads to a better and more sympathetic understanding of the administrative measures necessary in the control of a school on the part of the pupil. It gives opportunity for representative expression on the part of the governed and thereby meets one of the cardinal objectives of secondary education—that called citizenship.

It is hoped that the Student Council will shape and direct policies for the good of our splendid school community—our high school—of which they are a part.

The activities of the Student Council so far have been constructive in character. This group of students has sponsored the publication of a student handbook, which is a felt need in our high school. This publication will contain various rules now used to administer the school, certain curricula, and an explanation of each, a review of extra-curricular activities and many other important school items.

The Council has also sponsored high school cleanup activities, which include care of the school property as well as personal care on the part of the student.

The Student Council should give a new atmosphere to our school and its activities, as well as give an opportunity for mass student direction.

The members from the faculty are Mr. Thomas, Miss Rusk, and Miss Rockenbach. Its purpose is both for pleasure and profit. The programs endeavor to supplement the class work, to give opportunity for informal conversation, and to awaken an interest in German literature and music. Guests who have appeared on the programs during the semester are Misses Ella Gardner, Leota Rusk, Elsie Hedden, Celine Harris, Ruth Elizabeth Kirk and Mrs. Morris McDonald.

The club held a dinner meeting at the Woolworth Cafeteria on May 1 and plan to make the last meeting "ein Ausflug" to the attractive Kahler camp on Blue River.

FOOTBALL

Coach Thom

Asst. Gehlbach

Surprises, disappointments, successes, upsets, all go to make a successful football season.

Judging the New Albany Bulldog's 1934 record by this philosophy, one would surely label it the most successful season played through by a New Albany High School team in a great many years. And it was, notwithstanding the fact that two defeats mar its record, Coach Thom considers the past season the most enviable of his career here.

To begin with, on September 27, with seven lettermen back from the 1933 season and just two days before its first game against Columbus, the team looked terrible, but when the final whistle of that contest blew, Captain Calvin "Red" Treser found that he and his mates had employed their well-known single-wingback formation and old reliable number 66 off-tackle play to the tune of a 19-0 victory.

Then came the first disappointment. On the following Friday night Male High School of Louisville defeated our boys by 19-7 on their own field. The score, however, tells nothing of what that game really was—one of the most thrilling in which New Albany team has ever participated.

Later the Bulldogs atoned for this setback and walloped Okalona 25-0, following up with an overwhelming victory over the Kentucky Military Institute. Score, 39-0.

The Bulldogs now had reached their stride. Nothing could stop them. Princeton, reputedly carrying the best squad in Southern Indiana, next fell under the spell of the Canine team and went home on the short end of a 25-7 score.

Two new teams on the N. A. H. S. schedule now have into view. Anchorage, Ky., and Southport of Indianapolis—both strong football schools and both with remarkable records thus far in the season. But their reputation meant nothing to the now state-wide famous Bulldogs. Both felt the power of New Albany High School football—Anchorage by 13-0, Southport by 20-0.

The Bulldogs had tasted victory enough to make up for the Male setback, but once more before the end of the year they were to feel the sharp pangs of defeat, this time by Reitz Memorial of Evansville. For three quarters these two teams battled to a standstill in mud, ankle deep, and under a sky cast with clouds black enough to pass for night, until a Reitz player slipped through tackle for the only touchdown of the game.

Now for the last game of the season, presumably against Saint Xavier of Louisville, on Thanksgiving Day. All season Coach Thom had pointed his charges for that contest. Often he had spoken of it as the biggest event of the year. As a consequence the student body had worked itself into a frenzy. "Beat Saint XI" was the password of the school. And then the news came. New Albany and Saint Xavier, because of financial controversies, had broken off relations for the season of 1934. Bosse High of Evansville was immediately engaged to fill the date, and the New Albany Bulldogs loosed the full fury of their attack on the Bosse Bulldogs, staging a last half rally to win 12-0.

Thus ended the 1934 season of New Albany High School's football team, a team rated among the big ten in Indiana, a team that was as great in defeat as in victory, Tomorrow, New Albany's Bulldogs, invade Evansville to attack Reitz Memorial, one of the strongest teams in the city.

The Memorial Tigers played which was downed by F. J. P. to a zero tie. The performance of their season was a victory over F. J. P. Reitz, which was far this season. Of the four years of career in New Albany, they pulled two wins and six many times. In '28, they won 20-7 and 1-0 over the Bulldogs. In

SOUTHPORT APPEARS HERE IN LOCALS' SEVENTH GAME

Undefeated in intracity play last season, Southport High School of Indianapolis will offer the New Albany Bulldogs battle on November 10. They take place of Manual and Cathedral on the New Albany schedule.

He received a position for the local team a broken leg during scrimmage earlier the season. He of the backfield has been missing from the line-up due to a shoulder injury. Hawley received a back injury in practice but was able to play. Bill Hubbard, second, received a cut over one eye and three stitches.

AND COACHES

BASKETBALL

Coach Ballard

Lyndon Eurlon, Keith Farnsley, William Hubbard, Calvin Treser, Arthur Brown, Kenneth Brewer, Paul Able, James Hardin, James Weinmann, James Zoeller, and Maurice Monihon, all champions, composed our team of "Fighting Bulldogs." The season was memorable, because our team suffered only four defeats and won the annual Blind Tourney. Theirs is a record, one never before equaled by a local team.

The first game of the season resulted in a demoralizing defeat for the locals by a less powerful team at Salem. The Bulldogs, however, picked up momentum and dashed through the following four games, scoring decisive victories over Silver Creek, a newly scheduled team, Greensburg, Corydon, and North Vernon. A trip to Madison accomplished nothing. The following week-end the boys journeyed to Columbus where they won by a lop-sided score. A win from St. Xavier in Louisville gave the team the necessary encouragement to win the Blind Tourney, in which Paoli, Salem, and Corydon also participated, on the following day. A fling at the Washington Hatchets at Washington proved fruitless and resulted in defeat. The next night, however, Paoli became our victim. Valuable wins from Bedford, Bosse of Evansville, Salem, and Seymour followed. A thriller at Jasper ended with the Bulldogs in the lead and on the following night they started a five game home stand by winning from Central, also of Evansville. Scottsburg came next and they, too, were defeated. A speedy and powerful aggregation from Vincennes opposed the team next, and the "Alices" were defeated. Mitchell won from us, but the successful season was finished by a win from Male High of Louisville. Preparations were started for the Sectional Tourney to be held the following week in our improved gymnasium. By defeating Borden and Corydon we advanced to the semi-finals where we were defeated by Jeffersonville.

Varsity Squad

The schedule was a hard one and to complete it with only four losses was harder. For next year we have added Bloomington and Franklin. No one could pick a star on our team, for individuality was not shown. Fair play, unusual height, a fighting spirit, and superior coaching by Mr. Ballard are probably the reasons for our successful season. We are proud of our team, and no tribute too high can be paid to those who made it.

As a climax to one already successful season, the New Albany thinly clad, coached by Alex Thom scored five points in the state meet at Indianapolis. The mile relay team composed of Bassham, Reiser, McWilliams, and Stockdale placed second in the mile relay. Frank Kiper, fleet footed sprinter, placed fifth in the 100-yard dash for the other point.

For the second time in as many seasons the track squad was undefeated. They won two triangular meets, a dual meet from Male of Louisville, and their sectional by a top heavy score. They qualified at least one man in every event except the 880-yard dash and broad jump for the state meet.

Led by Kiper who scored 51 points, seventeen trackmen received letters: Klee, Martel, Hilton, McCary, Creek, Reiser, Bassham, Stockdale, McWilliams, Weber, Fenwick, Roberson, Hubbard, Miller, Kahoe, and Turner.

GOLF

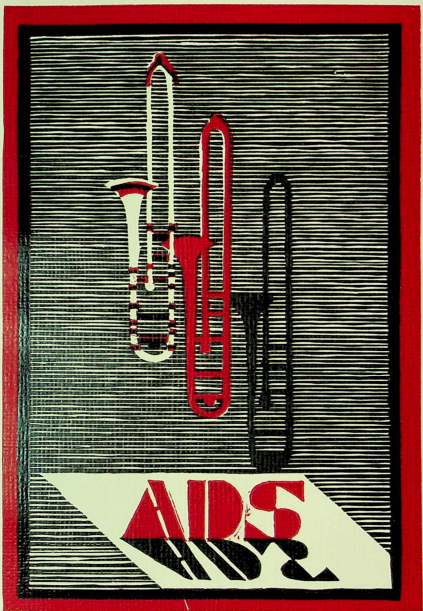

For the first time in the history of New Albany High School, a golf team represented the school. The team was composed of Captain Jim Scott, Jim Hardin, Billie Hagen, and Norman Perkins. Mr. Ballard coached these boys. The golfers took part in two tournaments. In the Falls City Tournament they captured both the individual and team diadem. Scott defeated Brown of Kentucky Military Institute for the single Trophy. The combined score of the four players defeated K. M. I. and St. X. for the team title. A week later Scott again demonstrated his ability as a golfer by shooting his way into second place in the Indiana State High School Golf Tourney. The team as a whole tied for sixth place with Tech of Indianapolis. The four boys who composed the team received minor letters. All except Billie Hagen are on the team this year.

Engineers in America solved the Problem with this new*

STUDY LAMP

Realizing that the then available study lamps were not furnishing proper lighting for his daughter, one of the leading lighting engineers in the country enlisted his own efforts and those of his colleagues to design a study lamp that would meet all needs . . . Now you and your children can benefit from this research. This lamp is designed to give the correct amount of illumination to prevent eye-strain, and its diffusing bowl eliminates harmful glare. See this new lamp at your dealer's or our salesroom.

FINALE

Stilled now are the notes' last clear vibrations
That fused the final echoes of the theme,
Shouting in joviality and joy,
Breathing a nostalgia, and soothing to content,
Or striking in a rhythmic primal beat
To jangle and blare a jarred discordancy—
The concert hall is quiet, and the listeners
Are leaving in regret and eagerness—
Regret for melodies possessed but once,
And eagerness for what may soon be heard.
